Dear Colleagues:

¡Acompáñanos en San Juan, Puerto Rico! Join us in San Juan, Puerto Rico! It has been over 15 years since the Forum has been in Puerto Rico. Make plans to reunite with your colleagues at the Gateway of the Americas for a meeting to be remembered.

Often described as the heart and soul of the Caribbean, Puerto Rico's culture is like no other. A vivid tapestry of the old and the new, it is the perfect backdrop to learn how the old ways of practicing construction law have blended or changed with new modern approaches.

Join us for an outstanding program: "Old World Meets New World: New Solutions to Timeless Problems." This program will cover a broad spectrum of topics that appeal to both a litigation and transactional practice of all experience levels. Whether you are a seasoned or newly minted practitioner, this program will provide all attendees the opportunity to learn from an all-star faculty how age-old problems can be solved with new techniques and approaches, and recent developments impacting the construction industry. Here are just some of the cutting-edge topics that will be presented:

- The Forum is honored that our opening session will feature the Governor of Puerto Rico, Pedro Pierluisi. Gov. Pierluisi (who is also a construction lawyer) will address the challenges of construction in Puerto Rico and what you need to know about doing business in Puerto Rico
- Learn how remote sensing data can be the secret edge in expert-driven litigation
- Understand the hidden pitfalls associated with modular building and prefabrication
- Find out how to marry modern presentation techniques with "old school" trial presentation concepts
- Gain valuable insights on managing the modern complex construction case through mediation and trial
- Learn the skills and techniques needed to meet challenges on international projects
- Understand the tips and traps of converting existing projects to new and different uses
- Learn to draft killer insurance clauses in the modern age
- Hear about the collapse and efforts to repair the Arecibo Observatory telescope, one of the largest radio telescopes in the world

- We will also continue with the Forum's commitment to developing trial skills with part two of the Forum's three-part series practicum on the construction trial and learn the fundamentals of openings and presenting evidence
- PLUS MUCH MORE!

Attendees will not only learn how to advance their practices, they will also have the opportunity to interact and catch up with friends and industry sponsors. Our meeting will be held at the famous iconic and timeless Caribe Hilton. Situated on 17 secluded oceanfront acres, the Caribe Hilton is the birthplace of the piña colada. Attendees can soak up the sun on a beach cabana, enjoy drinks poolside, or relax at the Zen Spa.

There will be lots of activities for attendees and their guests:

- Explore El Yunque National Forest, the only tropical rainforest in the national forest system
- Tour the Castillo San Felipe del Morro, a 16th century fortification guarding the entrance to San Juan Bay
- Stroll the streets of Old San Juan, shopping and taking in the sights, smells, sounds, history, and all those beautiful colors!
- Lose yourself in the Museo de Arte de Puerto Rico, an outstanding example of modern and contemporary museum design, with 24 exhibition galleries and lush grounds
- Enjoy a catamaran/snorkeling tour of San Juan Bay
- Visit the Catedral de San Juan Bautista and see the tomb of Ponce de León.
- Travel the Ruta del Lechón (the "Pork Highway") and taste the delicacies of the island
- PLUS MUCH MORE!

So make plans today to join us as we Build the Best Construction Lawyers while enjoying the warm blue waters, sandy beaches, swaying palm trees and historic culture of San Juan.

¡Nos vemos en San Juan!

See you in San Juan!

And Who's Going to Build This? Labor, Workforce and Material Issues: If You Haven't Seen Them, Ya Will

The COVID pandemic has brought the inter-connected nature of the modern world into sharp focus. Disruptions in labor, supply chains, and rapidly changing regulations are just a few of the challenges facing the construction industry.

This session will discuss these issues from multiple perspectives including labor issues, supply-chain issues (and the attendant delays and increased project costs that come with them), and regulatory challenges. Panelists will provide timely information on approaches to contract drafting and litigation to help your clients navigate these treacherous waters.

Killer Insurance Clauses in the Modern Age

In the world of construction, the death of an insurance-related claim can be something of a mystery. But for seasoned investigators (and careful construction lawyers), determining the cause of death for an insurance claim does not have to be a “who done it?”

This session will discuss the most common “killer insurance clauses”—provisions of liability insurance policies, certificates of insurance, or construction contracts themselves, which time and again prove to be the culprit behind the denial of an insurance claim—and best practices for proactively avoiding the denial or limitation of an otherwise valid insurance-related claim.

Bring Life to Your Case

This session will focus on “Old School” vs. “New School” approaches to trial presentation.

Modern presentation techniques/demonstrative exhibits can be a great aid in presenting your case. But is the new way the best way? This session will discuss how best to blend new technologies for presenting facts with old-school lawyering.

It's Kind of A Big Deal: Managing the Modern Construction Case

Technology has made construction cases more complex. Everything can be saved electronically, leading to even more documents and information that has to be digested and distilled. This problem is only exacerbated when the scope of the project is on a grand scale.

This session will be a lively panel discussion of a "real world" $100 million dispute concerning the construction of an existing public assembly space. The panelists will provide tips on managing a big case in a paperless and virtual environment, the modern tools available to assist in document management, and the old-school thought processes used to mine and distill vast amounts of data. Panelists will also provide tips on working with your opposing counsel and the court and/or mediator to manage and move these cases effectively, all while managing client expectations and working with clients to put on an effective case within budgetary constraints.

The Infrastructure Pie – Who's Getting Fed?

This session, featuring a discussion of the $1.2 trillion Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, including its scope, roll-out, shortcomings and benefits, will provide construction lawyers insight into identifying which agencies and projects may be funded by this sweeping legislation and what they can do to best support their industry clients seeking to get their own slice of the infrastructure pie.
