News & Op-Ed Commentary from The People's Republic of Moscow (Idaho) -- Pullman's Bed and Breakfast Community

A Message to Lois Blackburn ★★★★★

Note to Lois Blackburn: the vast majority of downtown is "private property".

That means it belongs to the property owner(s). It does not belong to the "community" — unless a) it is either city property or b) you have mistaken this town for the other Moscow in the former Communist Russia where property belonged to the collective.

The following letter to the editor appeared in today's Moscow-Pullman Daily News:

Several of my favorite people are members of Christ Church, and I'm glad for them if they are having fun at the Trinity Fest in downtown Moscow this week. But I have a personal message for you, their ambitious pastor. Let not your temporary overwhelming presence downtown imply a permanent takeover.

Downtown Moscow belongs to all of us in the community: people of other faiths, intoleristas, secularists, heterosexuals, homosexuals, and those who, under Confederate auspices, would belong to that "multiracial society of mutual intimacy and harmony" called slavery. Live beside us and among us, but not over us.

I give you the Tiny Tim blessing: "God bless us, every one" - no exceptions.

Lois Blackburn, Moscow
